KNOW THE WEATHER

By E. H. Sims

Should you be afraid of lightning in summer thunderstorms? Will you be able to see the bolt that strikes you, if you're hit?

There is no reason whatsoever to be afraid during a lightning storm. There is reason to be sensible, and to stay out of places where lightning is most likely to strike. But you will not see the lightning that hits you - if you're hit.

It's technically possible, of course that if you were standing outside in the open and saw the streak of lightning high above, starting down toward the earth, that same bolt might hit you. But chances are that it wouldn't. And chances that you'll see the discharge that strikes you are almost nil.

So there is no reason to fear lightning; if it hits you, you'll know nothing about it and there will probably be no agony before hand, if it's fatal. Therefore, take sensible precautions and do not risk unwise exposure, and then sit back and enjoy the great show that is lightning. If you'll spend some time at a window with a sweeping view you'll find it is a magnificent sight.
